CRISPIN SMITH URGED TO RUN

McHugh Acquitted—McNabb Gets Heavy Sentence For Forgery

(Bulletin Special Dispatch.)
Calgary, Nov. 3.—Crispin Smith, police magistrate, also leader of the fire brigade band, is being urged to run for the Commons for Calgary district in the Conservative interest.

McHugh, a prominent rancher, who has been on trial, charged with having stolen a horse from another ranch, was acquitted yesterday.

The Territorial horse breeders will hold a sale and show of horses in Calgary in March. There will be over 400 horses on sale. The sale will be conducted like the cattle sales.

M. R. McNabb, charged with forgery, was this morning sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Nesbitt, of Olds, and Webster, of Calgary, who also appeared on charges of forgery, received the same sentence of three years' imprisonment.

SUPREME COURT

Two cases were on at the Supreme Court yesterday: that of Fawcett on a charge of shooting cattle and of Perry for stealing furs from Revillon Freres.

Information was laid on September 16th by Maggie Whitford, before Inspector Belcher that she had seen the prisoner Fawcett shooting at the cows in question which belonged to Jno. Sinclair. At a further hearing before Inspector Belcher on September 16th, Fawcett was committed for trial. The case came up yesterday.

Maggie Whitford repeated the evidence she had given at the police barracks and identified the prisoner saying that at that time he was wearing a grey suit. The defence produced a number of witnesses to prove an alibi at the particular time in question and also to prove that the prisoner was not wearing a grey suit. His Honor Judge Scott noted that the alibi was not proven but the point regarding the suit was well made. On these grounds Fawcett was acquitted.

Wilfrid Garrepy for the defence and C. deW. McDonald for the crown. Fawcett's case was next considered but very little progress was made with it in the afternoon. It is being held at the court today. W. Garrepy for the defence and C. deW. McDonald for the crown.

WETASKIWIN EXCITED

Over The Probability That the C. P. R. Will Immediately Construct a Line East.

The citizens of Wetaskiwin are greatly pleased over what seems to be good prospects of another railroad. In the last few days eleven cars of rails have arrived at Wetaskiwin over the Canadian Pacific railway. The cars are now unloading and the supposition is that the proposed branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, one hundred miles east of Wetaskiwin, will be constructed immediately.

Power was given the C. P. R., at the last session of parliament to construct this branch line. It is well known that a party of Canadian Pacific Railway engineers were at work in this district east of Wetaskiwin, during the past summer.

THE FRASER BLOCK

With Edmonton's progress and development this year came a great demand for business stands. Among a number of Edmonton business men to respond to the demand by way of building blocks, was D. B. Fraser.

The work on this block was rapidly hurried forward. The ground floor is now finished and occupied, and the carpenters are still at work on the first and second storeys. The block is solid brick, 80x28, three storeys and a full sized basement. It is fitted with the most modern lighting and heating arrangements. The first and second storeys will be used for offices, etc. On the first and second floors are eight large rooms with convenient hallways. The entire block is furnished with water and sewer connections. A two-storey brick warehouse, 40x26, will be constructed to the rear, and as an addition to the block. The ground floor and basement of the block are occupied by Whitlaw and Nairn, grocers.

This new store affords Messrs. Whitlaw and Nairn splendid opportunity to display their goods. The store is large and suitably laid out. A large stock of groceries and crockery is on hand. The store has a shaded metallic ceiling. The furniture and show cases are all of the latest design and are nicely finished. They were manufactured by Cushing Bros., Edmonton. In the basement are also three silent salesmen. A large window space will afford good opportunities for effective window dressing.

The lighting system is especially good, twenty-eight electric lights in all being installed. There is an elevated office to the rear of the store.

The money order system has been extended greatly in Canada and the number of United States offices upon which Canadian money orders can be drawn has been increased from 5,900 to 28,000.

Money order arrangements have been made with Newfoundland, Trinidad, The Transvaal, Cape Colony and Norway, and steps are being taken to secure its further extension. The minimum allowances to country postmasters have now been increased from $10 and $15 to $25; and this salary and allowances to accounting postmasters have been increased ten per cent.

The requests made for increases of salaries and allowances in the post office department totalled three-quarters of a million. These the postmaster general did not see his way to grant.

BRITAIN'S PREFERENCE

"Live and Learn" is a good motto. Sometimes learning comes late for one purpose, but is in ample time for another.

Canada hoped for British support in the Alaska boundary case. To put the case mildly, she did not get it. She did not get warm sympathy in her contention for control of the heads of the inlets. She did not get even cold justice in the adjustment of the entrance to Portland channel, or of the mountain boundary.

Canada has a small population and an extensive frontier. Against all the rest of the world she is a strength to the empire, but as against the United States she is the empire's greatest weakness.

Because of the greater developed area of the United States, British trade and interest with and in the United States are greater than British trade and interests with and in Canada. Nothing could be more natural—looked at from a strictly business standpoint—than that in any possible clash of interests between Canada and the United States, short of actual war, Britain should be willing to sacrifice the interests of Canada to secure or retain the good will of the United States.

It was because Canada believed that, owing to several marked occurrences of recent years Britain might be expected upon to stand by Canada's interests as being the empire's interests, in so far as those interests could be proven to be right, that the Alaska boundary commission was agreed to by Canada. The event has proven that British sentiment and British policy have not altered since the cession of Northern Maine and of Oregon.

The United Kingdom is Canada's best, and practically only market for her surplus food products, and is the source from which Canada can most profitably draw a large range of manufactures and other articles of trade, which she requires. Canada has the advantage of the British military and naval power without taxation. These are business advantages in the intimate connection between Canada and Britain which Canada cannot afford to overlook, notwithstanding any disappointment at the deliberate, cold blooded and evidently premeditated throw-down of her interests and rights in the boundary award.

But a campaign is now in progress in the United Kingdom, undertaken by members of the administration which good graced Canada on the boundary award; and in the interests of that administration. The proposal of the campaign is ostensibly to give to the colonies, and especially to Canada, certain special and extra advantages in the British market. Canada, it may be mentioned, has already given the United Kingdom special advantages on certain of her export products in Canada's markets. Naturally the proposal was looked upon with favor in Canada. But the carrying out of the proposal involves mutual concessions. That is to say, that Canada in order to get the advantages offered will have to give advantages. In other words, Chamberlain's proposal is that Canada's fiscal system shall be subject to British control, if not to actual British control. If Britain, having control of Canada's relations with foreign countries, has seen fit to give up Canada's territorial rights in the interests of good will between the United States and the United Kingdom, how much more likely would it be—according to the measure of its control of Canada's fiscal policy, or the pressure which it might be in position to exercise—to prejudice Canada's fiscal interests in the same, or like, case of mutual good will.

The results of Canada's connection with the empire have been generally satisfactory, and the greater the mutual independence of action, the greater the mutual satisfaction. Canada has granted the United Kingdom a trade preference for domestic reasons. Should the United Kingdom grant Canada such a preference, also for domestic reasons, well and good. But as long as the statesmen of the United Kingdom look upon colonial interests merely as pawns in the game of international politics, the less they have to do with those interests, whether territorial or fiscal, the better for the empire at large.

The present ties of the empire are largely those of sentiment. They will be stronger as such than if the sentiment is mixed with business, such as dominated—if it did not dictate—the action of the British commissioner on the Alaska boundary commission. In the light of this decision, and the motives underlying it, we can read with better understanding Napoleon's slur as to the nation of shopkeepers, and can more than vaguely see in Chamberlain's tardy declarations for a self-contained empire, rather a desire to use the loyalty of the colonies as a means of getting better terms from the foreigner for the United Kingdom, than to give the colonies an advantage against the foreigner in the markets of the United Kingdom.

Let Mr. Chamberlain develop his policy so that we can see what is in it, before we give our adherence to it. "Once burned, twice shy," is a saying worthy of being remembered at this juncture in the present campaign of golden promises. It may be that the Alaska boundary award will after all prove a blessing in disguise by warning Canada against a vastly greater and even more egotically premeditated swindle.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

The Rhodes Scholarship committee appointed for the Northwest Territories have prepared the following memorandum for the information of intending candidates for scholarships in the Northwest Territories.

The first election of scholars under the Rhodes bequest will be made between February and May, 1904. The elected scholars will commence residence in October, 1904.

A qualifying examination will be held within this period at Regina. This examination is not competitive, but is intended to give assurance that all candidates are fully qualified to enter on a course of study at Oxford University.

It will therefore be based on the requirements for Responsons—the first public examination exacted by the University from each candidate for a degree.

The Rhodes scholars will be selected from candidates who have successfully passed this preliminary examination. One scholar will be chosen from the Territories.

The requirements of the Responsons examinations as well as copies of Oxford Responson papers for past years can be obtained from the Copp Clarke Company, Toronto.

It has been decided that all scholars shall have reached at least the end of their sophomore, or second year work at some recognized degree-granting university or college of Canada.

Scholars must be unmarried, must be British citizens, and must be between nineteen and twenty-five years of age.

Candidates may elect whether they will apply for the scholarship of the province in which they have acquired the above mentioned educational qualification, or for that of the province in which they have their ordinary private domicile, home or residence. They must be prepared to present themselves for examination in the province they select. No candidate may compete in more than one province.

Candidates for scholarships should during the month of January, 1904, notify the chairman of the committee, His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, of their intention to present themselves for examination. The decision of the committee of selection shall be final as regards eligibility.

WINNIPEG MARKETS

Commercial, October 31st.

Wheat—Manitoba wheat in the Winnipeg market has been dull and quiet all the week, and towards the end of the week it is stagnant. Prices for spot wheat have been rather held up by the idea that short sellers might find it difficult to fill contracts for October delivery. In the last two days any anticipated difficulty in this respect has disappeared, and as prices have been rather above shipping value and outside markets show a tendency to decline, our prices must follow to induce business. There is an irregular change in prices from a week ago. No. 1 northern and the lowest grades show a decline of about 1-2c, while 2 northern and 3 northern are only 1-4c lower. At the close of business yesterday prices were: No. 1 northern $2 1-4c, 2 northern 78 1-2c, 3 northern 74 1-2c, No. 4 wheat 67 1-2c, for immediate delivery and for delivery first half November 1-4c under these prices; all in store Fort William or Port Arthur.

Oats—The movement continues light and the market has developed no new features. The local demand seems to be about the only one that there is any effort being made to supply. There has been no actual change in prices, although it is reported that two cars of No. 2 white were sold here this week at 30c track Winnipeg. Today new No. 1 white oats are worth 32 to 33c per bushel in car lots on track here. No. 2 white, 31c; and feed grades, 29 to 30c. At country points farmers are getting 23 to 25c for wagon loads. Fort William values are about the same as Winnipeg.

Barley—The movement is light and the market is steady. Malt grades are bringing 28c per bushel in car lots on track here and feed grades 33 to 35c. Farmers are getting 28 to 30c at country points.

THE AGE OF ANN

A few issues ago we published the following problem: "Mary is 24 years old. Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann?" The question is very simple, although many people have puzzled themselves over it since it was announced as a difficult problem. Many people about town have handed in correct answers. The following is one of them:

Mary is 24 years old. She is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann? The proposition is susceptible of demonstration by several methods, but algebra affords a clear solution as follows:

Let x equal Ann's age.

The difference between the ages of the two girls is a constant quantity.

The difference is now represented by the expression "24 minus x."

But Mary is now twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now.

That is, Ann was 12 years old when Mary was x years old. So that the difference in their ages at that time would be represented by the expression "x minus 12."

Equating these two expressions we have:

24 minus x equals x minus 12.

Solving this by a well known method it is found that 2x equals 36 or x equals 18, Ann was 12, or just half as old as Mary is now.

MISSION BOAT FOR NORTHWEST

Globe.

Rev. Father Hudson, of Montreal, who superintends Roman Catholic missions in the west, has placed an order with the Polson works for the construction of the steel framework and engine boilers of an 80-foot boat. The work will be finished by December, when the parts will be shipped to Edmonton.

The boat is designed to navigate from the Great Slave Lake to Beaufort Sea, a stretch of about 1,300 miles, with the Mackenzie River as waterway. There are already a number of boats engaged in the mission work of the west, but this one will be the largest when launched.
